Full job description

Your new company

An opportunity exists for an experienced Economic Analyst to join a State Government organisation based in the North Shore. This organisation is seeking an individual with a wealth of experience to join them on a temporary basis for 5 months.

Your new role

In your role as an Economic Analyst, you will be responsible for undertaking and supporting a range of economic analysis on an assortment of associated strategic issues to meet the organisation's objectives. You will be responsible for preparing documents such as economic appraisals, briefing papers, discussion papers, and reports while providing high level advice and support to the Director of Economics and Analysis. You will have knowledge of cost benefit analysis to apply that to changes to clinical practice.

What you'll need to succeed

To be successful in this role, you will have relevant tertiary qualifications in health economics/economics or demonstrated equivalent professional experience. You will be able to demonstrate high level analytical skills to undertake complex analysis while also having the ability in using macro and micro economic tools to conduct economic appraisals and modelling. Someone who has great time management skills and strong verbal and written communications to interact with high level stakeholders.

What you'll get in return

This role provides a chance for you to assist this State Government organisation in a 5-month assignment (potential for role to be ongoing). Your dedication and hard work will be remunerated at a range of $52.38 to $86.93 per hour plus super. The working arrangements will be a mixture of office based and work from home based.
